Income tax expense/ benefit

Income tax expense for the year ended 31 December 2022 was US$0.9 million, compared to income tax benefit of US$1.7 million in the corresponding period of 2021, mainly due to the net utilisation of deferred tax assets resulting from the Group's increase in profit generated and lower expectation of sufficient future taxable profits for the foreseeable future in 2022 as compared to 2021.

Financial position of the Group

Cash

6 A commentary at the date of the announcement of the significant trends and competitive conditions of the industry in which the Group operates and any known factors or events that may affect the Group in the next operating period and the next 12 months

Looking ahead, the World Semiconductor Trade Statistics is forecasting the Worldwide Semiconductor Market to face a slight decline in 2023. This is largely due to rising inflation and end markets seeing weaker demand, especially those exposed to consumer spending. Apart from that, global monetary policy is also expected to tighten further, to contain headline inflation rates. On this backdrop, the Group is forecasting a muted outlook for the financial year ending 31 December 2023 ("FY2023").

Having expanded its niche in recent years to include testing for commercial applications, GTC's core business also encompasses testing mixed signals and logic in its key markets. GTC expects to see some rebalancing in terms of revenue contribution from its consumer and commercial segments in FY2023.

At the same time, the Group remains mindful of the uncertainties ahead and is cautiously optimistic on the outlook for FY2023. Backed by its strong engineering capability and established partnerships with suppliers and customers, GTC remains focused on delivering quality testing services to all clients and maintaining its orderbook, whilst improving its production efficiency and prudently managing its costs.
